Climate

Barcelona has a maritime Mediterranean climate. You can expect very pleasant weather during the day. In the middle of March the average maximum temperature lies around 17°C (61°F) and average minimum temperature is around 10°C (50°F).

Bring an umbrella just in case since there might be rains during this period. Plan on layering your clothes as during the day it is nice and warm, but sometimes it can be a bit chilly in the evening. With a water temperature of around 12°C (53°F), there is no need to bring swimwear.

Currency

The unit of currency in Spain is the euro (EUR).

Most international credit cards are accepted.

You can compare your local currency to the euro here.
